3.0. Aesthetics:

3.0.1. Aesthetics Introduction:

To devote our research of God (3.1) in its educational, analytic, cultural, poetic, wisdom, technical, scientific, and artistic aspects we journey an epistemology (3.2) of our nooethic experience from teophany, faith-inspiration, semiotics, learning humility needs, rational jurisprudence, virtue ethics, searching for a art's reliability. Then, we shall critique our faithful thinking (3.3) through logic, sociologic, semiolinguistic, and cognitive negative atheologicity. From this dialectic of theopoethic aesthetics (3.4) we shall face theologic biomesis cognition through cosmopoethics (3.5) into scientry (3.6) ecopoethics (3.7) reaching a bioethic (3.8) consecration of faith-inspiration artistry (3.9) and faith-based museologic ecology (3.10).

3.3.4. Critique Of Faithful Reason:

God's reasonable faith,

I think I think therefore I believe. I think I believe therefore I create. If I am, being is possible. If being can be, than it is. Being is the plenitude. God is perfection. Loving the perfect is obvious. Not loving God is lying illogically. The world is not perfect, but perfectible. The world is loveable without being love. God presentifying in the world through our love is logics.

I believe I create therefore I think. I create I believe therefore I think I create beliefs. I am, being ends or transforms. If changes can be, then it is unchanging. Not-being is the plenitude empty of being. God is perfection generator of perfectibility. Loving the imperfect perfects our love. Not loving in God's love is lying love. Our love is not perfect, but perfectible. Our love is changing without being the change. God presentifies perfect love in the world through us and in us through the world.

I create what I think therefore I believe. I think I create therefore I believe. I have myself, then I can lose myself. If I lost myself in possibilities, then I can find myself. Transience plentifulizes itself emptying and empties plenifying. God is perfection of perfections perfectibility in harmonious changes. Love is not obvious to me and is the biggest mystery. Loving the one searches without losing oneself. God is this love I never achieve in my own logics. Our world is a task to be done in our love. Our love is an endless task to be done in our world finitude. God presentifies logics experience in us through love as faith.

God as survival and power. God as punishment, wrath and war. God as universe. God as justice, virtue, and ethical conduct. God as refuge, compassion and love. God as chance, synchronicity. God as harmony. God as happiness. God as dignity. God as science and knowledge. God as mystery. God as time, experience. God as ritual, initiation, practice. God as belief, simulation, model. God as computation. God as reflectivity of self. God as humour. God as consciousness without object. God as the end, the final simulation. God as the paradox, problem. God as peace, emptiness, silence. God as everything. God as language. God as process, perfectionment. God is perfection.
